

Student Responsibility

Some academic programs have specific attendance policies. These policies will be located in the course syllabus and addressed by instructors during course introductions. It is the student's responsibility to properly withdraw from a class if required attendance cannot be maintained.