

CIST 1121 : Microcomputer Troubleshooting

Emphasizes the use of system theory and diagnostic routines to isolate failures, replace the defective module or subsystem, and verify proper operations. Topics include: basic system theory, operating systems use, diagnostic programs, subsystem isolation, upgrading systems, preventive maintenance, and service reports preparation.

Credits 4

Prerequisites

CIST 1130

CIST 1122