

BMET 1231: Medical Equipment Function & Operation I

This course introduces the study of electromechanical systems currently in use throughout the health care field with an emphasis on typical biomedical instrumentation. Topics include monitors, ECG machines, intensive care units, coronary care units, operating room equipment, and telemetry systems.

Credits: 4

Program: Electronics Technology