

ECON 2106: Microeconomics

Provides an analysis of the ways in which consumers and business firms interact in a market economy. Topics include basic economic principles, consumer choice, and behavior of profit maximizing firms, modeling of perfect competition, monopoly, oligopoly and monopolistic competition.

Credits: 3

Program: Economics